A stipulation was placed on file in the district court yesterday in the case of Robert Phillips against the city. This stipulation, which was commenced about a month ago to recover $500 damages which it was claimed the plaintiff had suffered by reason of an overflow of Indian creek, the terms of a compromise which has been effected between the city and Phillips, the latter agreeing to take $20 in full for all damages and dismiss the suit. The stipulation referred to contained in substance this agreement:

The police force, under the regime adopted Monday night by the mayor and the council, consists of the chief and seventeen subordinates. This is three less than before. Mayor Macrae, in speaking of the matter, said yesterday: "I don't think it is necessary to have a large and well organized force there was a year ago. At that time all the men we had, and more, too, were not doing much good, justly had one of the hardest reputations that any city in the state could boast of. At present the city council has reduced the force, and we can therefore get along with fewer and peace preservers."

Albert Woodcock, general land commissioner of the Union Pacific railway company, was in the city yesterday the guest of S. B. Wadsworth, secretary of the board of trade. He was given a drive over the city and shown through the new Grand hotel. He was enthusiastic in his admiration of the hotel, and pronounced it to be the finest hotel structure in this vicinity, and better than anything in Omaha, Lincoln, or Salt Lake. Speaking of the city itself, Woodcock said that he saw it of it, he said: "I know of no place whose romantic presentations are so impressive as I find here, and between Omaha and Council Bluffs I would much prefer to live on this side of the river. The little green and sheltered valleys I have seen are ideal localities for homes. I can say the class of business buildings you are constructing would be a credit to any of the larger cities."

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

City Council Fails to Act on the Chautauqua Motor Line.

PETITION AND REMONSTRANCE RECEIVED.

Reasons for Not Building Along the Proposed Route—City Printing Divided—About the Drinking Water.

The city council met last evening to finish up business left incomplete on Monday evening. The principal object of the meeting was to consider the question of granting the Omaha and Council Bluffs street railway company the right of way to the Chautauqua grounds. The committee of the whole, which had the matter under consideration during the afternoon, reported favorably. An ordinance had been drawn up authorizing the construction of a single track street railway along Pierce street from its intersection with Oak to McPherson avenue, thence on McPherson avenue to east city limits; Ridge and Canning streets from the intersection with Pierce street to east city limits; Hubbard street from its intersection with Canning street to east city limits, providing the company shall file a written acceptance of the ordinance within thirty days after its passage, and shall construct and operate the proposed railway on or before July 1, 1891.

Messrs. Harkness, Hazleton, Oursler, Hart and Gleason were present in the interests of the Chautauqua Association, and the claims of the association were presented by them.

A remonstrance was also on file from certain property owners in Pierce and Canning streets against the building of the road along the proposed route. The remonstrance stated that, in the opinion of the signers, the East Broadway route was best, as Pierce and Canning streets are narrow and ought to be left for the driveway out to the new houses within a few feet of the road along which the railroad is proposed to be built. In order that the road may be built, we are to give up ten feet of our property next the street, in order that the street may be widened. Some of our houses are so near the street now that we should have almost no front yards at all, while others would actually have to move the houses back, and we are to waive all damages and give up this property to the city, and when it comes to go to such an expense we draw the line."

The petition and remonstrance were referred again to the committee of the whole for further consideration.

The matter of city printing was taken up, and it was decided to divide the printing between the Nonpareil and the Globe, at the same prices as were charged last year.

Alderman Pace stated that he and another member of the council had been to the house of Robert Phillips and had examined the hay which he claimed had been damaged by an overflow of Indian creek, and had found that it was not damaged at all. In fact, he had been led to believe that Phillips had been really benefited, as he had been unable to sell his hay when it had been clean and now he had it on hand when it would bring a much higher price. He moved that the compromise which had been effected with Phillips be rescinded, and that the city be allowed to take the hay back, and the case be settled forthwith. The motion was carried.

City Physician Jennings stated that he had looked up the matter which had been called to the attention of the council, with regard to a stagnant pool which was standing at the corner of Avenue G and Eighth street, and he had come to the conclusion that it was not at all probable that there would be another epidemic of typhoid fever in this city, in the particular spot in a large enough quantity to become stagnant, and he recommended that the matter be laid on the table. The recommendation was adopted.

Mayor Macrae brought up the subject of the city water, and wanted to know if something was not to be done toward getting some drinkable water. There was some discussion of the question, but nothing definite was done.

A communication was read from the headquarters of the western states commercial congress. It stated that the first annual session of the congress would be held at Kansas City from a week commencing April 14, at which time a number of questions would be brought up for discussion relating to the welfare of the western states, and asked that the mayor be appointed from Council Bluffs. On motion the mayor was appointed delegate, with permission to appoint a substitute provided he could not attend in person.
